NEW HIRES GROW PLANB CONSULTANCY'S CAPACITY

Portland, OR (February 27, 2017) – PlanB Consultancy Inc (PlanB) announced the recent hire of Jordan Henderson, Christine Schlicker, and Amy Winterowd. Their additions grow PlanB's abilities to serve clients throughout the Northwest.

Henderson is a professional engineer with 6 years of experience primarily in heavy civil and transportation design of large-scale projects including the Sellwood Bridge Replacement in Portland, Oregon. He graduated, with honors, from Oregon State University with a Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering. Henderson will support PlanB's Integrated Services team. He is currently consulting to the leading company in silicon innovation and serves as an adjunct professor at Portland State University.

Schlicker has 15 years of experience of roles in the legal, construction and governmental realms as well as having run her own business. She holds a Bachelor of Science from Warner Pacific College and joins PlanB as a Senior Consultant. Schlicker has previously worked with clients such as Metro, Hoffman Construction and Apollo Sheet Metal. Schlicker will focus within PlanB's Integrated Services division and is actively on projects for Oregon Metro in Portland, Oregon as well as King County Metro in Seattle, Washington.

Winterowd joins PlanB as a Principal with over 15 years of experience in the professional services industry as a business development, marketing and project management professional. She was previously an Associate Principal at Yost Grube Hall Architecture where she continuously fostered relationships for the globally practicing firm and helped secure new Fortune 50 clients. At PlanB, Winterowd is leading business development activities as well as supporting the firm's Integrated Services team. She is a graduate of the University of Puget Sound and currently sits on the Board of Directors for the Architecture Foundation of Oregon.
